

WELCOME

Happy end of Financial Year to you - In this edition of the PSA WAY we unpack some of the best ways that you can develop your own strategic, program or project value plan. As well we discuss how our robust project value methodology can be applied at the concept/initial idea stage to set up the foundations for success from the outset. This theme was a key focus when we had the pleasure of hosting a group of government delegates from Bangladesh for a workshop on our proven and tested planning, monitoring and evaluation systems which can provide significant benefit and cost saving.

On the PSA program and project front, the first quarter of 2018 has seen several projects reaching completion as well as others commencing with the completion of the Medical Unit upgrade at Loddon prison and final stages of the Flinders Street Station redevelopment, and PSA's recent appointment as Project Manager for the Traralgon Sports stadium redevelopment along with key roles to deliver additional beds at the Youth Justice Centres for the Department of Justice. In addition, PSA has been appointed for the Stage 3 works at Melbourne Park and a new commercial office tower at 80 Collins Street.

We also look back over 50 years of project management experience on the point of value and project success.

PROGRAM SUCCESS FACTORS

VALUE – A SHORT INSIGHT FROM 50 YEARS OF PROJECT MANAGEMENT

Having been engaged in project management for half a century now, Dr Paul Steinfort was asked to reflect upon the outcomes and lessons of that time, from both a general and specific point of view.
